COLLEGE

Ashley Thon is a recent graduate from Ferris State University. She attended two years at LMC before transferring to FSU. Her interest in numbers was influenced by pursuing the Associate in Accounting and a Bachelor in Analytical Data Mining. Business Data Analytics is a new curriculum at Ferris. She redirected her degree.

Her parents, Mike & Carolyn Thon, first thoughts were - Data what? And what are the job opportunities? Ashley informed them that she had researched the BDA degree and there were numerous opportunities. She explained the Data Analytics uses data to gather information which creates knowledge. For example, data can help companies with finding patterns to limit credit card fraud. Along with finding patterns in cell growth for diagnosing diseases, data can analyze patterns of terrorist activities, or even discover patterns impacting endangered animals. Now, it’s time to chase my dreams and find employment.
